

Who Can Facilitate?

www.OurCatholicFaithStudy.com

The facilitator should be a Catholic in good standing (attends Mass every week). He or she should be capable of managing group discussion as well as have some catechetical formation. Facilitators should adhere to the study guidelines and are encouraged to communicate with their priest or pastor throughout the course of the study. Facilitator workshops are scheduled throughout the year. (Dates and times are posted at OurCatholicFaithStudy.com).

Our Catholic Faith is designed so that the participant presenting the topic will lead the lesson. The group facilitator helps to make sure the information offered follows the study guidelines and objectives. The facilitator must assure that all participants use the reference materials listed in the study guide for their topic. Should participants choose to use other sources, specifically from the internet, they and the facilitator should review these sources for authenticity at www.catholicculture.org.

The facilitator also helps the group stay on task and keeps the discussion pertinent to the topic presented. Each facilitator of a study group registered at OurCatholicFaithStudy.com will have access to Instructional Audio Podcasts and a Facilitator's Guide. The Instructional Audio Podcasts and Facilitator's Guide will help the facilitator understand the presentation as well as provide additional insights to the lesson.
